Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

None. It's my impression that we have a competent VSU here in Storey.

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

The VSU.

3. As you are aware, the Nevada Supreme Court entered an order on August 17, 2006 requiring Nevada judges to undertake continuing judicial education on the causes, effect, and dynamics of domestic violence. In addition to-or in conjunction with-the training you receive pursuant to that order, what areas related to adjudicating domestic violence cases would you like to see additional information and training offered? For example, court interpreters, victim advocates, batterer's counseling services, confidential address programs, etc.

We have advocates in the courthouse, victim coordinators on site (in DA's office), on site spanish interpreter, and a pretty good grasp of DV issues, witness cooperation is and continues to be the no 1 impediment to successful prosecutions.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

One resource that needs improvement is properly trained officers. They need further training in thorough initial investigations, evidence collection, follow-up investigation and the proper way to testify in court. Without this proper training it is difficult for a case to be presented properly and achieve convictions.

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

A very important resource this court has are the interpreters. This court has very competent and practiced interpreters.

The use of audio/visual technology for viewing of videos, photos and testimony is a very effective and useful resource in this court. Body microphones and cameras are one of the most important resources the court can view the events that occurred on the day in question.

3. As you are aware, the Nevada Supreme Court entered an order on August 17, 2006 requiring Nevada judges to undertake continuing judicial education on the causes, effect, and dynamics of domestic violence. In addition to-or in conjunction with-the training you receive pursuant to that order, what areas related to adjudicating domestic violence cases would you like to see additional information and training offered? For example, court interpreters, victim advocates, batterer's counseling services, confidential address programs, etc.

More DVI workers to follow-up on cases for a year after the case has been adjudicated.

This court has seen less and less of repeat offenders or unknown why unless they are not being reported. The community has taken great steps and going proactive by spreading the word about Domestic Violence. All most all domestic restraining orders have a hearing and this seems to reduce the number of domestic battery charges in the area.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Elko County has only one (1) provider for DV counseling. This office is located in Elko Nevada. If someone from Wells is ordered to attend classes, as required by statute, they are located 50 miles -one way- from Elko. If someone living in Montello, Jackpot or valleys and other areas in the Wells Township, they will be travelling in excess of 100 miles one way to attend the DV counseling sessions. Travel is difficult and costly for individuals and roads are dangerous/traacherous in the winter in our area. Some do not have driver's licenses and some do not have a vehicle to get them there. I am sure this is a problem in other rural areas.

We, also, have only the City who can accept or deny community service.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Income based BATTERERS INTERVENTION COUNSEING.
Nevada Certified on-line classes
Non profit organizations that will take offenders

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Local counselors
local non profit organizations that will take a person convicted of domestic battery review hearings requiring defendant to appear in court periodically for review of court orders

3. Yes I am aware of the education requirements. Our Judge's Association is diligent in making sure education is available at our seminars. Any and all education is valuable. I would like to see training on reason why a victims avoids prosecution of their abuser. The What, Why and How counseling helps the defendant make changes and not reoffend.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

We manage to accomplish what is needed through utilizing LRS Systems from Las Vegas, Victim Witness Services from Ely Nevada and a close monitoring of each case by court staff. Our saving grace is we don't have the volume of cases many courts have to deal with

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Meadow Valley Township Justice Court received approval to utilize a live streamed video link for Batters Treatment counseling provided by LRS Systems from Las Vegas. Without this program being allowed there is no other State approved counseling available for this rural area. This counseling requires the defendant attend weekly sessions held at the courthouse here in Pioche. Attendance and costs are monitored by court staff.

3. As you are aware, the Nevada Supreme Court entered an order on August 17, 2006 requiring Nevada judges to undertake continuing judicial education on the causes, effect, and dynamics of domestic violence. More web based counseling services allowed to allow defendants more options.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

I am satisfied with the resources available in adjudication of these cases.

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Traditional courtroom evidence. Testimony, photographs, diagrams.

3. As you are aware, the Nevada Supreme Court entered an order on August 17, 2006 requiring Nevada judges to undertake continuing judicial education on the causes, effect, and dynamics of domestic violence. I would like to see more education on the effects of aging in these kinds of cases. We are experiencing an increase in DV cases involving aging victims and perpetrators, with many substance abuse, dementia, social and crippling mental and physical health problems. It seems to me the judiciary needs to learn more about this rapidly expanding population and the problems they experience.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Counseling services that the defendant is required to use when they are sentenced are very lacking. Funding for those services is very limited. Many defendants cannot afford the counseling sessions and therefore, do not attend.

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

(no answer)

3. As you are aware, the Nevada Supreme Court entered an order on August 17, 2006 requiring Nevada judges to undertake continuing judicial education on the causes, effect, and dynamics of domestic violence. Counseling services need to be increased in Elko County. Victim Impact Panels for Domestic Violence should be available. Training on how the judge should deal with the firearms prohibition for a conviction of DV.

Prevention of Domestic Violence

1. What resources are lacking in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Counseling, counselling, counseling. A Court services officer who can monitor those defendants who are released prior to adjudication and can monitor compliance after. An appropriate facility with a location to allow alleged victims and defendants to wait separately.

2. What resources are most helpful in the adjudication of domestic violence cases that you handle?

Victim Witness Services

I would like education that does not try to influence a judge's neutrality (i.e. poison the well). The worst example of this was the course at the 2012 Judicial Summit, where the judges were required to "role play" the role of a victim through a series of conclusory scenarios. This education really should be provided to the attorneys so that they can properly present the information to the Court in an open court, subject to cross-examination, instead of trying to back door it through ex parte training.
