LRS Distance Domestic Violence Program

Six clients have gone through the LRS distance domestic violence class program in Judge Cowley's Court in Pioche. Two clients are current. Three have graduated. One died before he could complete the program.

The clients pay $30 for each class and a $70 intake and 1on1 interview fee. There is also a $25 fee for the LRS class manual, "Breaking the Cycle of Abuse." Two of the clients were on a sliding scale fee. The group class takes place on Fridays at 10am at LRS in Las Vegas.

No other Judges have requested our program although we understand that all the Judges are aware of the program. Even though LRS is running this program at a loss, LRS will serve any judges who make a request for the distance domestic violence class program. The only requirement that a court needs to have is an internet connection.

The Nevada Domestic Violence Committee could do a mailing to the distance judges to see if there is more interest.
